which talks about the form of governance, needs an interpretation.

Article 74 says: "The form of governance of solving the House of Representatives, specify a date, to be within six months, for new elections to the House of Representatives."

As many as 13 petitions have been filed against Oli's House dissolution move, claiming the constitution doesn't allow a majority prime minister to do so.

Conducting the preliminary hearing on December 23, a single bench of Chief Justice Rana had decided to send them to the Constitutional Bench.

The Constitutional Bench started the hearing on January 15.

In between, Justice Sapana Pradhan Malla replaced Hari Krishna Karki, after he decided to recuse himself from hearing on the grounds that he was once Oli's counsel in the capacity of the attorney general.

Justices Bishowambhar Prasad Shrestha and Tej Bahadur KC are other members of the bench.

"The bench could take at least a week after the hearing concludes to issue its verdict," said Kishor Poudel, a communication expert at the Supreme Court. "We can expect the verdict by the end of this month."
